BRITISH ADVANCING ON NORMANDY FRONT

Salvage Experts Start Repairs On Cherbourg Docks

Enemy Loses Greater Part of Four Infantry Divisions, Numerous Naval and Marine Units in Fall of Great Harbor

HIGH RANKING NAZI OFFICERS TAKEN BY YANKS

BULLETIN
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 27—(P)—The Germans have lost "not less than 70,000" men in killed, wounded and captured since D-Day, headquarters estimated unofficially today. The 79th Division from Pennsylvania, commanded by Maj. Gen. Ira Wyche, the Fourth Division and the Ninth Division comprised the Seventh Corps which captured Cherbourg. It was estimated that 32,000 Germans have been captured since the invasion began.

By WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 27—(AP)—American troops completed conquest of the deep-water port of Cherbourg today, while a powerful British offensive swept up three more towns and punched within three miles of the eastern Normandy bastion of Caen.

In the battle for Cherbourg "the enemy has lost the greater part of four infantry divisions, numerous naval and marine units, and line of communications troops," supreme headquarters declared.

The Doughboys captured Lt. Gen. Carl Wilhelm von Schlieben, Nazi garrison commander, and Rear Admiral Hennecke, sea defense commander of Normandy. Salvage experts rushed in order to make the great docks and harbor a tremendous funnel of men and supplies or the battles to liberate Europe.

But already Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was battering out on the eastern flank, with British troops driving east and southeast of Tilly-sur-Seuilles. Field dispatches said forward elements were less than three miles due west of the stronghold of Caen, and within a mile of the main road running southwest from Caen across the base of the Normandy peninsula.

The three additional towns captured were La Gaille, Cheux and St. Manvieu, in a stretch running some five miles east of Tilly.

Warship guns supported this push, battling against the most violent kind of opposition in the sector where the German command had concentrated four armored divisions.

Supreme headquarters declared "the fall of Cherbourg ends the second phase in the campaign of liberation"—defeating the immediate German tactical reserves and obtaining a harbor for larger operations.

There were indications that Montgomery already had begun the third phase, that of engaging the full strength of the German army and defeating its strategic reserves.

Today's Allied communiqué was issued about four hours after supreme headquarters had given the first official word of the capture of Cherbourg with the terse announcement—"Flash—Cherbourg fallen."

A short time later came this special communiqué:
"Cherbourg was liberated by Allied troops last night."

Thus after five days of furious fighting Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's forces won for the Allies France's third most important port—a great gateway through which to pour vast armies and huge quantities of war machinery to complete the liberation of France and the conquest of Germany.

Although the last resistance in the battered port ended last night several pockets of Germans still were holding out today in the peninsula itself.

There was every indication that Rommel was determined to defend Caen to the last and an even

C. of C. President Chats With Stalin

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Moscow, June 27—(P)—Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, talked business with Premier-Marsh Joseph Stalin for two and a half hours in the Kremlin late last night and emerged with the declaration that the conversation had been "very successful."

The interview was confined largely to questions by Johnston about future trade between the United States and the Soviet Union and direct answers by Stalin.

However, Stalin also gave his guest a statement praising American business, labor and agriculture for their contribution to the war.

Johnston said he was particularly surprised as what he termed "the depth of the Marshall's knowledge of America, particularly its production. His knowledge is accurate and very complete."

Johnston said they talked briefly of the war while two salutes were fired outside the Kremlin windows celebrating the capture of Vitebsk and Zhlobin.

GERMAN WALL ON RED FRONT IS TOTTERING

Russians Drive From Captured Vitebsk and Zhlobin As Mogilev Is Threatened With Encirclement

BULGE GROWS WIDER

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, June 27—(P)—Under one of the most terrific air assaults of the war, Germany's White Russian forward wall by the Orsha, Mogilev and Bobruisk bulge appeared to be collapsing today, with the entire salient or more than 100 miles in immediate danger.

Red air fleets from four fronts were ceaselessly attacking enemy reserves, tank formations and forward positions and hitting at bridges and communications behind the enemy's tottering lines.

On the ground, four powerful Red armies advancing along a 250-mile front began converging on the Minsk gateway to Warsaw and Hitler's Reich.

The Germans were fighting savagely to hold the great bulge but it appeared a hopeless task.

Despite this stubborn resistance, the Red army was closing in rapidly on the three bulge cities. Units were already in the outskirts and outlying sectors of both Orsha and Mogilev, battering at a deep system of trenches and concrete fortifications.

(A CBS broadcast from Moscow said Orsha, next most important city south of fallen Vitebsk, was already surrounded with all means of escape cut off to the Germans.)

The great air role is being directed by Col. Gen. Vershinin, whose planes figured prominently in the capture of Sevastopol, Col. Gen. Timofey Kravchenko, brilliant, 33-year-old commander Col. Gen. Sergei I. Rudenko, and Lt. Gen. N. P. Papiyev.

Stormovik planes were blasting the enemy's armored divisions incessantly, shooting up trenches and blockhouses in continuous sweeps over Orsha and Mogilev.

Constituting the northern arm of the great converging ground forces was Gen. Ivan Bagration's first Baltic front, which with 36-year-old Gen. Ivan Chirakovsky's third White Russian front after taking Vitebsk, pushed rapidly at the heels of the beaten Germans through the lakes, swamps, and forests of sparsely populated northern White Russia.

Gen. Chirakovsky was promoted from colonel general to general.

Try New Plan To Rescue Airmen

Grand Canyon, Ariz., June 27—(P)—A second rescue party prepared to descend by muleback today into the depths of Grand Canyon hoping to save by means of a harpoon gun and a sectional wooden boat three army airmen who bailed out of a heavy bomber and landed on isolated Tonto plateau, 500 feet above the swirling Colorado river.

Four seasoned park rangers and 12 mules already had left the canyon rim and moved down a precipitous trail toward the river bank. The first party, due to reach the gorge floor today, was laden with equipment to establish an operational base at the stream's edge opposite the plateau. Rescue may be effected Friday, army authorities said.

A searching plane spotted one of the parachutes and later the stranded men fired green flares skyward to indicate all were safe.

Thousands of Prisoners and Stores of Equipment Captured

By DON WHITEHEAD
Cherbourg, June 27—(P)—Thousands of German prisoners are streaming into American prison cages today and a huge amount of enemy equipment has fallen into doughboy hands—with no one yet having time to assess the great stores of ammunition and supplies captured in Cherbourg.

One of the most stubborn knots of resistance finally broke this morning when a German artillery colonel radioed to the Americans he wished to surrender. He was taken prisoner along with 300 others.

About 9,000 prisoners surrendered yesterday, among them Lt. Gen. Carl Wilhelm von Schlieben, and officers following them.

U. S. Heavies Attack Baltic State Targets

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

London, June 27—(P)—Up to 500 American heavy bombers attacked Budapest and Yugoslav railroads at Brod today, and U. S. strategic air forces in Russia announced the bombardment of a synthetic oil plant Monday at Drobobycz in Poland.

From yet a third direction, British Halifax bombers from England attacked a military installation in northern France. Dense clouds and near gales over the channel, however, limited air blows from Britain although Mosquitoes by night bombed Gottingen in north-west Germany and Nazi troops camped south of Caen in Normandy.

The American heavies from Italy fought through screens of Nazi fighters and destroyed an unspecified number in reaching the overcast Hungarian capital and Brod.

The planes flying from the Russian shuttle bases were conveyed by U. S. Mustangs and Russian Yaks.

Unfavorable weather over the battle zone again threatened to limit today's operations.

The only other activity reported overnight for Britain-based Allied air units was a foray by a half dozen RAF beaufighters which administered a heavy pounding of a formation of E-boats near the hook of Holland without loss.

From Italy last night Allied bombers attacked the Aquila oil refinery at the Italian naval base of Trieste as a follow up to yesterday's daylight attacks by American Flying Fortresses and Liberators on oil installations and an

Heaviest Rocket Raid Experienced

London, June 27—(P)—Striking through a cloud cover, German rocket bombs subjected southern England during the night to one of the heaviest assaults.

The robots seemed to include some of a different type. One crossed the sky at a slightly slower speed than the others and its engine cut out and then re-started. Some apparently carried heavier loads of explosives.

In the face of the continuing attacks by these blind raiders, two London newspapers—The Daily Express and The Daily Mail—are campaigning for a relaxation of the strict blackout.

"If pilotless planes are to replace bombers the sole original reason for the blackout will have gone," said The Daily Mail.

SAVAGE FIGHT FOR CAPITAL OF MARIANAS

American Artillery Rocks Garapan Several Hours With Heaviest Barrage of Campaign

FLEET REMAINS IDLE

BULLETIN

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
Representing the Combined American Press—Distributed by The Associated Press
Aboard Joint Expeditionary Force Flagship, Saipan, June 27 (June 26 U. S. time)

(via Navy radio)—Japanese infantry resistance stiffened all along the island-wide front this morning as marine and army forces reached a sector possibly chosen for the beginning of Japan's last ditch defense of Saipan. Already five heavily defended Jap pockets have been by-passed on Mt. Tapochau from whose peak the American line pivots to the beaches on the eastern and western sides of the island.

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, June 27—(P)—American soldiers and marines, who already have captured Saipan's best airfield, biggest harbor and highest mountain, fought today for its largest town—Garapan, peace-time capital of the Japanese Marianas.

While American artillery rocked Garapan for several hours with the heaviest barrage yet laid down by Saipan shore guns, American planes and bombs made life miserable for front-line Japanese troops all the way from the Kurile Islands in the North Pacific to New Guinea and the Solomons across the equator.

Aside from a carrier task force raid upon Guam and Rota islands in the Marianas Saturday, there were no reports of fleet activity. The Japanese fleet which ventured out toward Guam last week, only to take a tremendous beating in plane and ship losses, presumably has retired to the Philippines for repairs.

In the strike at two airstrips on Guam, seven enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and 10 to 12 damaged. Two aircraft were

Agencies Rush Aid to Victims In Storm Area

Pittsburgh, June 27—(P)—The enormous task of caring for the hurt and homeless—victims of the disastrous tornado that swept parts of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland—proceeded today amid indications the death toll would advance still higher.

Official counts placed the number of storm dead at 153—108 in West Virginia, 42 in Pennsylvania and three in Maryland.

In Shinnston, W. Va., in Greene county, and in the suburbs of McKeesport, where Friday night's tornado left the greatest toll in its wake, relief agencies went ahead with the work of rehabilitation.

The Red Cross, from disaster relief headquarters set up in Clarksburg, W. Va., Washington, Pa., and Pittsburgh, tabulated the damage and directed arrangements to re-establish the homeless on a firm basis.

The Red Cross reported 85 persons still in hospitals, most of them in a serious condition.

It is learned from Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Kettering, former Warrenites now living in Erie, that their son, Charles E. Kettering, staff sergeant in the Ranger Service, has been reported missing in action somewhere in France since D-Day on June 6.

S/Sgt. Kettering was born in Warren June 7, 1920, the grandson of S. C. Johnson and the late Mrs. Othine Johnson, 824 West Fifth avenue.

He was graduated from Strong-Vincent High School in Erie and was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company before entering the armed services.

Ladies Are Wielding Broom In Political Housecleaning

By JACK STINNETT

Chicago, June 27—(P)—As the Republican convention swung into its second day, it was apparent that for the first time since the GOP started political housekeeping, 92 years ago, the ladies are wielding the broom.

True, the men have most of the spotlight, with the exception of Rep. Clare Booth Luce, the GOP glamor lady from Connecticut. But behind the scenes the women were in there politically pitching. Mrs. James A. Farley, wife of President Roosevelt's political manager in 1932 and 1936, made news by appearing here to back the GOP nominee, "no matter who he is," provided President Roosevelt seeks another term. Her box in the convention hall was one of the best, and gratis from the Republican national committee.

Among scores of other busy women were Mrs. Robert A. (Martha) Taft, who is contributing much to the fact that both in the senate and out, her husband is emerging as one of the most influential Republicans in the party today; charming Mrs. Dwight Green, who is virtually official hostess of the convention by right of being the wife of Illinois' Republican governor; Mrs. Jerome Mesta, who has had an ear in most GOP affairs; Miss Marion Martin, assistant chairman of the national committee; and Alice Roosevelt Longworth, whose sharp wit has been aimed at the Democrats for more than a generation.

The period covered represents a total of about 10 months of fighting ending June 4, during which time the British participated in many major engagements, including the battles of Cassino and the Anzio beachhead.

Churchill said his figures included 14,331 killed, 47,966 wounded and 10,825 missing.

Figures on air force and naval losses during this period were not available.

Churchill said the overall casualties

THREE BERRY-PICKERS KILLED NEAR SCRANTON

Binghamton, N. Y., June 27—(P)—Three boys were killed and 3 other persons injured yesterday when a truck carrying berry-pickers from the Scranton, Pa., area left the highway near here, sheared off two gasoline pumps and caught fire.

The dead were identified by Broome County Coroner A. J. Stillson as John Danilich, 12, and his brother Joseph, 10, of Dunmore, Pa., and Thomas Esagro, 10, of Jermyn, Pa.

The wrecked truck was one of a fleet of four owned by Howard Sison of Sherburne, N. Y., carrying berry-pickers to his farms near Sherburne.

Hoover Planning Active Campaign

Chicago, June 27—(P)—Arriving to address the Republican convention, Herbert Hoover said today he would participate vigorously in the election campaign.

"I am going to stay in this fight until I die," the only living former president told newspapermen as he stepped from his train. "The fight is for everything that is precious to the American people."

"The prospects for a Republican victory this fall are good," he said. Asked about Wendell Willkie's criticism of the foreign affairs plank preliminary draft for the platform the former president commented "the platform so far as I have seen, is in the right direction. That includes the foreign plank."

Hoover appeared in excellent health.

REP. MARTIN CITES ISSUES OF CAMPAIGN

Permanent Chairman Declares "Day of Reckoning for the New Deal Is at Hand"

Ovation for Warren

By PAUL MILLER

Chief of The Associated Press Washington Bureau

Chicago Stadium, June 27—(AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, permanent chairman of the Republican convention, declared today the "day of reckoning is at hand" for the Democratic party, as delegates cheered Gov. Earl Warren of California, the keynoter, and pushed toward a decision on a vice presidential choice.

In Albany, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, assured of the presidential nomination, was reported making preparations to come here on short notice—possibly by tomorrow—to accept. Many more than the votes required to nominate already were his.

In a speech released, before Martin was able to break into a crowded program to deliver it, the minority leader of the house of representatives said the New Deal is doomed.

Martin, minority leader in the house, told the delegates the "day of reckoning" was at hand for the New Deal because people are "tired of bungling and floundering, waste and extravagance, arrogance and bureaucratic dictatorship." Even some Democrats have rebelled, he said.

"We have seen the head of the Communist political party in this country, Earl Browder, merge his party with Sidney Hillman's CIO Political Action Committee in a drive for a fourth term for president Roosevelt, and the election of a congress that will be subservient to the will of those organizations," he went on.

"It presents a vital issue of this campaign. Do the people want these radical organizations, with their avowed purpose to remake America, to control the presidency, to secure a 'rubber stamp' congress, and to dominate x x x our government? Of course they don't."

Almost at the hour for Martin's speech before sweltering thousands in the hall, the platform-drafting resolutions committee announced downtown approval of a foreign policy plank which retains the pledge assailed by Wendell L. Willkie and 15 Republican governors, to enforce future world security by an international organization employing "peace forces."

Plans were made to present the

Foreign Policy Plank To Be Tailored to Fit Dewey Ideas

By JACK BELL

Chicago, June 27—(P)—The likelihood that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will be the man to breathe life into the Republican party's platform pledges prompted proposals today that the foreign policy plank be tailored to fit his public utterances.

This how toward the party's prospective presidential nominee was suggested in a conference of 15 Republican governors with members of a drafting committee headed by Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio. It climaxed these developments:

1. The governors let it be known through one of their members, Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, that unless the group produces a plainly-worded declaration of American intent to join an international peacekeeping organization, they will carry their fight to the parent resolutions committee.

2. Wendell L. Willkie's complaint that a tentative plank declaring for collaboration but inveighing against a "world state" might be interpreted by the presidential nominee to ban the formation of an effective organization was laid before the group informally.

3. Platform drafters, saying it was "too bad" Willkie was "mistaken," made no promises of any changes that would please either the governors or the 1940 presidential nominee.

The governors were steamed up over what Baldwin called the "equivocal language" of the tentative plank's promise to maintain security through "peace forces."

(Turn to Page Nine)

Speculation Over Plans of Dewey

Albany, N. Y., June 27—(P)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey may entrain tonight for Chicago where, if nominated for president, he will deliver his acceptance speech to the Republican national convention tomorrow night.

This development cropped up today when the governor's office declined to affirm or deny that the stage was set for a train dash to the convention scene tonight should Gov. John W. Bricker withdraw from the race.

If Dewey's nomination were assured today beyond reasonable doubt, it would permit the governor to leave for Chicago several hours before the actual balloting began. The purpose would be to close the convention as soon as possible.

If he does go by train tonight, Dewey and four members of his official family are prepared to fly to Chicago tomorrow, provided he is nominated by afternoon.

Thief Takes
Two Valuable
Instruments

Police are on a hunt for two valuable trumpets which were stolen last night about 10:30 from the vestibule of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club. The instruments were part of the equipment of the VFW band and had been used by their owners at band practice. One was a Keifer Trumpet with mouth piece and clips in a black case. This was owned by Leidy Williams and was valued at $125. The other trumpet was a Cleveland in a brown leather case and it was valued by the owner, Elmer Sederburg, of Irvine at $100. As soon as discovered the police were notified and they expect to be able to secure the instruments and make an arrest.

One drunk was draped on the slats at headquarters during the night. He was plucked off the street by officers. Two women in an East Side neighborhood joined in some caustic repartee over a back fence to such a degree that police were called to halt the billingsgate that was being scattered over the ambient air of a rare June evening.

A barking dog at 12:15 shattered the sleep of a batch of war workers and the coppers were called; a prowler on South South street was sought and found wanting when the police arrived. At 1:15 an argument at Penn avenue and Water street disturbed the rest of the worthy burghers. Officers put on the siren and the boys moved homeward.

Finally some authority on ducks announced that it was a Pekin that had undoubtedly floated away from a flock.

Anniversary
of Church Was Celebrated

The 111th anniversary of the founding of the First Evangelical church by Bishop Seybert was observed in two special services on Sunday, sermon topics and music carrying out the general anniversary theme. The choir sang and Anne Brown was heard as soloist.

On Sunday evening the district superintendent, Rev. C. E. Servy, of Franklin, was guest speaker, taking for his topic "The Strategy of the church". At the conclusion of his sermon, trustees of the parish were invited to the chancel for a note-burning ceremonial. Participating in this part of the service were O. R. Pang, president; S. F. Custer, secretary; M. L. Danielson, Floyd Carter and Ray Sly.

The burning of this note represented final payment of the indebtedness against the church and offerings taken during the day were sufficient to cover obligations of the parish to the conference debt fund, so that it is truly free of any indebtedness.

Good sized audiences at both morning and evening services included many friends of the church as well as members.

FIRST CLIPPER FILM
HERE FROM SWEDEN

It is with pride that Scandia Films, Inc., in spite of world conditions, is able to present the latest film out of Sweden, which recently reached this country by Clipper Express mail. This newest Swedish film, "Soliga Solberg" (Sunny Sunberg) will be shown at Columbia theatre on Thursday and Friday.

It is with equal pride that the company announces that the star role in this delightful Swedish comedy is carried by none less than Edvard Persson himself.

The brilliant actor is still the outstanding favorite of Swedish moviegoers both in Sweden and on this side. "Soliga Solberg" is indeed made to order for this unique Swedish film comedian, who has captured the heart of all Sweden. Edvard Persson feels at home in this film, and what is more makes his audience feel at home from the very first moment, he like a hero-tenor sings from the very stage of the Royal Opera House in Stockholm, until he, as a prosperous owner of a small restaurant in the outskirts of the Swedish capital smilingly rings up crown after crown on his large cash register.

It is difficult to picture Edvard Persson as a successful businessman, because of his good heart, which always seems to give away everything he has of worthy goods just as Edvard gives of his song and music, smiles and charm. Nevertheless he succeeds in his business venture, perhaps because he implies part of his own philosophy to the film. He trusts a cruel world in spite of several setbacks.

It is a happy heartwarming film one always will remember, with Edvard Persson at his best, himself, perhaps a little spoiled, but happy.

Young People Will Enjoy Party On Friday Evening July 14th

So enthusiastic was the response of the young people to the first community youth party held at Beaty school Friday evening under the auspices of the Community PTA Council that another such affair is being planned for Friday evening, July 14. Plans are being worked out and will be announced in the near future.

An attendance of approximately 400 young people was even greater than those in charge had hoped for and popularity of both games and dancing were evidences of general satisfaction with the program as planned. Over 100 saw action on the two badminton courts, between 35 and 40 were playing shuffleboard and it was necessary to install the second pingpong table to handle a like number of applicants. Each of these games had a long waiting list remaining when 11:30 came and the party was over.

Because of the continued rain it was necessary to switch the dancing indoors and here there were about 300 constantly dancing to the music planned by Mac McCarthy and Nick Geracimos. The latter was at the mike, also, for special announcements and for the floor show which was staged at ten o'clock.

Entertainers were Joan Martin, vocalist; Nancy Geracimos and Martha Ann Grant, dancers, and Bill Clinger, with his feats of magic. Personated of the orchestra group was Bill Dobbs, John Robertson, John Jnapp, Dick Randall and Nick Geracimos.

Decorations were carried out in red, white and blue, with American flags and streamers. Special guests of the young people for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Schuler, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bathurst and Mrs. Frances Kotmair. Success of the party was largely due to the untiring efforts of the young people who formed most of the committees. On the general committee were Robert Wilder, chairman; Eleanor Peters, Mrs. Walter Mathyer, Homer B. Fleming, Mrs. Olive Archibald Huff and Georgia Spinney, with these groups assisting:

Floor—James Farrell, chairman; Allen Woodruff, Guilio Fino, Jack

Cooney, William Meneo, David Leidig, Music and floor show—John Knapp and Nick Geracimos, co-chairmen, Decorations, Leland Daye, chairman; Virginia Johnson, Jay White, Dorothy Ann Harris, Joan Weiler, Georgia Spinney, Marcia Johnson, William Bill, Arlene Speckman, Teresa Fino, Beth Smith, Allen Woodruff, Refreshments—Teresa Fino, chairman; JoAnn Phillips, Arlene Speckman, Allan Schuler, William Fuelhart, William Hill, Tom Hampson, Equipment—Hugh Jamieson, chairman; Jim Richards, Dick Blair, Robert Woodwell, Publicity—Olive A. Huff, chairman; Charles—Guilio Fino, chairman, Games—Walter Mathyer, chairman, Lights—Brown, Bill Meneo, Finance—Mrs. Henry Kolpien.

Special thanks is extended by the sponsors and young people to all who contributed to the evening's success and particular appreciation to the Evert's Hardware, Masonic Temple and the Times-Mirror.

Store Employees Stage Keen Contest in War Bond Sales

O. A. Pressel, long-time executive of the Metzger-Wright Company, is leading the store's bond selling drive as part of the Fifth War Loan. Others who are high up on the list, in order of their sales, are Mrs. Leota Clark, Mrs. Helen Brockway, Mrs. Bess Stone, Victoria Staaf, and Claude Landers. All the above have sold more than $1,000.00 in bonds.

The quota accepted by Metzger-Wright coworkers at the beginning of the campaign was $500.00 each. The total store quota was set at $50,000.00, $30,000 to be sold "over the counter," and $20,000.00 by special solicitation among associates of the company. In addition to the above leaders of the campaign, the following have exceeded their quotas: Mrs. Mildred Carter, Mrs. Bertha Lathshaw, Mrs. Pearl Johnson, and Mrs. Clara Dietsch, all of whom have sold between $500.00 and $1,000.00. Those who have sold between $250.00 and $500.00 and who are expected to exceed their quota within the next few days are: Harriet Chat-

levy, Alan Aquist, Clara Weldert, Mrs. Madeline Lyons, and Ruth Woodin. Forty-eight of the store's sixty-five employees have sold bonds since the beginning of the campaign.

A special feature of the Metzger-Wright Company is an arrangement with the Treasury Department and the Textron Company, makers of parachutes and army tents, whereby each customer who buys a bond may autograph a sticker. These stickers are sent to army ordnance depots where they are pasted on actual bombs to be delivered to the war theaters. A customer may choose whether he wishes to have his bomb showered upon Hitler or upon Tojo.

A $25.00 bond buys a fragmentation bomb, a $50.00 bond buys a 100-pound all-purpose bomb, a $100.00 bond buys a 500 pound all-purpose bomb, a $500.00 bond buys a 2,000 pound all-purpose bomb, a $1,000.00 bond buys a 4,000 pound block buster. A special sticker may be autographed for each bond purchased.

Congressional Medal of Honor Awarded Local Marine

Mrs. Frieda Thompson, 60 Pennsylvania avenue, east, has been informed that her son, Donald, a sergeant in the United States Marine Corps, has been honored with the highest and most rarely awarded decoration, the Congressional Medal of Honor, for gallantry at the risk of his life and above and beyond the call of duty.

Young Thompson, a veteran of both the Guadalcanal and Bougainville campaigns, has been overseas for 18 months. He has been in service for the past three years, one year of which was spent at the Jacksonville, Fla., air base.

Readers will recall a photograph appearing in the May 3 issue of the Times-Mirror, in which Sgt. Thompson was pictured with a group of buddies and the Japanese trophy they captured on Bougainville, the same action in which Mac Corah, of Warren, was injured.

GETS ASSIGNMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Raleigh, Orchard street, have received a message stating that their son, Pfc. J. Allan Raleigh, of New Castle Army Air Base in Wilmington, Del., has been sent on a special assignment to the Air Transport Command control office at the municipal airport, Newark, N. J.

Penn Electric Directors In Meeting Here

Highlight of the meeting of the Board of Directors of Pennsylvania Electric Company held in Warren today was the announcement of Penelec's adoption of a new policy effecting line extensions, according to J. P. Fenstermacher, local manager.

"The change in policy, as set forth in the Company's general tariff of rates, rules and regulations, provides that as of August 15, 1944, the basis for monthly minimum charges is reduced from 1 1/2% of construction cost (1% on extensions in service 7 years) to $12.00 per mile, with provision for waiver in the instance of more than 9 customers per mile or in any event when an extension has been in service five years the regular schedule minimum will apply. Heretofore, in the Warren area the guarantee were waived to $2.00 level when the total revenue in two consecutive years equalled or exceeded two-thirds of the total extension cost. A separate rule is provided under which other extensions may be constructed either with customer assisting in the financing or at rate of 2% of the construction cost. The rate has been 2 1/2% on polyphase extensions."

Out-of-town members of Penelec present at today's meeting included: President P. H. Harris; W. C. Sontum, vice president; R. F. Pruner, secretary; P. R. Lawson, treasurer; C. H. Edlund, comptroller; M. J. McCleary, Frank W. Womers and Harry Ziane, all of Johnstown; D. W. Jardine, vice president, and O. H. Marshall of Erie; B. M. Kirsch, vice president, of Bradford; A. F. The women they'll never forget!

THIS WAS A RED-LETTER DAY for Jim—the soldier who had lost the use of his leg at Salerno. For this day he walked—strictly alone—for the first time in months. To Jim, it was a miracle. To the Wacs who had coached him so long and so patiently, he said, "Sister, if I live to be a million, I'll always remember you for this."

THIS IS A WORLD WAR. The most terrible of all recorded events in human history.

And this is what the Wacs—the women soldiers of our Army—are doing about it:

Working in critical hospital jobs. Helping to restore the broken bodies and spirits of fighting men.

Working as lip-readers. Helping blind men to see again through knowledge of Braille. Working as laboratory technicians. As pharmacists. As psychiatric assistants. As ambulance drivers.

■ We'll gladly send you information about joining the Women's Army Corps. Simply mail the coupon below. Lt. Elizabeth Clarke Dairo will be in Warren Wednesday, July 5th, at the Y. W. C. A.

Working in control towers. Making strategy maps for invasion.

Manning the giant switchboards that send combat orders winging to tensely waiting bomber crews.

Working night and day at vital jobs. Jobs that will speed the day of liberation—and give us peace again.

These are the women "they'll never forget"...

Gallantly, a new page is being written into American history by the women of the Women's Army Corps.

It has been operated by the Haskell Brothers for more than 40 years and the Dunham lease has been operated for more than 20 years.

MANY WELLS DRILLING

Compensation Referee Jesse G. Smith who recently had occasion to drive from Pleasantville through to Warren states that the drilling being done by the Great Northern Ordnance Company in that section is wonderful. He states that he counted close to 50 rigs at work and as the sands are shallow some outfits used in the sinking are similar to those used in drilling water wells. The work is giving employment to many oil field workers and in addition to the wells the company is bringing new compressor plants, power houses and expending a huge sum of money.

Margaret Lindquist And Harold Arthur Wed on Saturday

The Akeley Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful ceremony Saturday afternoon when Margaret E. Lindquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton E. Lindquist, of Akeley, became the bride of Harold C. Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde J. Arthur, of the same place.

Rev. Philip Schlick performed the ceremony for which Mrs. Willard Munson, of Pinehurst, N. C., played traditional music. Mrs. Edward Miller, of Akeley, sang "O Perfect Love" and "Because" during the ceremony.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin with fitted bodice and full tulle skirt. Her fingertip veil was held with orange blossoms and she carried white roses and forget-me-nots.

Mrs. C. E. Lindquist, of Warren, O., as matron of honor, wore figured aqua taffeta with yellow hat and gloves and carried a nosegay bouquet of gladioli, white carnations and yellow roses.

Mrs. Harold Bloomgren, of Akeley, sister of the bridegroom and second attendant, wore a similar outfit of figured pink organza with matching accessories and a nosegay of pink roses and white carnations.

Robert Arthur, of Akeley, was his brother's best man and ushers were C. E. Lindquist, of Warren, O., and Clyde Arthur, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y.

Mothers of the young couple were both in aqua with white accessories and corsages of yellow roses.

A reception followed immediately in the church parlors with the following assisting: Alice Lindell and Mrs. Robert Haley, Russell; Bernice Lindquist, Warren; Helen Randall, Elsie Lundmark and Mrs. Wilbur Haddon, Jamestown, N. Y. Guests were from Erie, Youngsville, Pleasantville, Warren, North Warren, Russell, Pinehurst, N. C.; Buffalo, Jamestown and Falconer, N. Y.; Alabama; Cleveland and Warren, O.; Chicago, Ill.

For a short wedding trip, Mrs. Arthur chose an aqua suit with matching turban and corsage of pink roses. The newlyweds are to make their home at 427 East Fifth street, Jamestown. The bride has been a member of the Russell school faculty and has been honored with a number of lovely parties.

Mr. Arthur is employed by the Marlin-Rockwell Corporation.

Miss Dorothy B. Newell has returned from Chicago, Ill., where as a delegate from the local club, she attended the 24th annual convention of Zonta International, held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel June 22, 23 and 24.

Delegates were privileged to hear Dr. H. B. Haas, head of the chemistry department of Purdue University, who spoke on "A Post War View of Miracle Age"; Mme. Colbjornsen, wife of a former member of the Norwegian parliament, who escaped from the Gestapo to this country to join her husband after a hazardous journey through Russia and India; Dr. Eunice Hilton, dean of women of Syracuse University, and Dr. Marion Hilliard, of Toronto.

At the banquet Saturday evening, Sigrid Schultz, former head of the Berlin office of the Chicago Tribune and broadcaster from Berlin over the Mutual network, addressed the group. Miss Schultz is the author of the currently popular book, "Germany Will Try It Again."

I DIED TODAY...
WHAT DID YOU DO?

IF WHAT you did for the war effort today was an easy thing to do, it isn't enough. We can not hope to give as much as the boy who gives his life... but we can do our utmost!

For instance, if you have not yet found yourself scheming and figuring on a way to buy extra War Bonds, it's a pretty good sign you aren't buying enough!

When your neighbor calls on you during the 5th War Loan to ask if you'll increase your purchases, say "Yes"... even if it takes a lot of scheming and figuring afterward to pay for them.

That's the way our men are doing their part... in the Pacific, in Italy, in England. Ordered to attack, they do not first consult themselves to determine whether it's safe or convenient or comfortable. They're thinking of you at home. To protect you, they attack first... and figure out how to do it as they go.

Uncle Sam needs your dollars to finance this war and he needs them

now! Not just the dollars you can spare but every dollar you can earn that you don't absolutely need for food, shelter, clothing and the operation of the farm.

War Bonds savings mean more to the average farmer or rancher than to almost anyone else. For they form a financial reserve indispensable for the profitable and efficient operation of his business. War Bonds are safe, they pay a good return, they're easy to buy. When they mature, they mean new machinery and equipment, new conveniences for the house, money for the children's schooling, funds for retirement.

The next time you pick up your paper or listen to the radio news, have a conference with yourself. "Am I doing as much as I can to help win this war? Am I matching what I can do with what the boys are doing over there? Am I investing every possible dollar in War Bonds today to make my future and my family's future more secure?"

Most of us haven't yet begun to do our best. Uncle Sam needs it now! BUY MORE THAN BEFORE in the 5th War Loan!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED... NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy... from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

Fifth Army Is Advancing Over Italian Coast

greater battle than the assault on Cherbourg was likely to develop as Montgomery makes his bid to break out into the open country.

Cherbourg fell to American infantry after house-to-house fighting which climaxed five days of the most bitter fighting of the 21-day campaign and came almost four years to the day since Adolf Hitler, proclaiming a defeated France, surveyed "the war in the west is finished."

In its closing phases, the capture of Cherbourg was a bloody grenade and bayonet business by clean-up squads which moved through smoky streets wiping out pillboxes and strong points. Von Scheiben ignored a second call to surrender yesterday and the last-ditch defenders died by the hundreds in the final hours of their fanatical fight.

One of the richest prizes in Europe, Cherbourg's outer harbor, alone covers 1,250 acres of water and will hold more than 100 of the largest merchant ships. This Transatlantic terminus provides a safe anchorage even in the roughest weather.

Waiting in the English channel for the port to fall was an enormous Allied salvage convoy with every type of equipment ready to rush in and repair the dock facilities and remove any sunken ships.

4-H CLUB HELPS WITH SCRAP DRIVE
The McGraw 4-H Club has been outstanding among the 4-H clubs in Warren county but its record thus far this summer has been especially inspiring.

During the last two weeks its secretary, Doris Hickman, has received two checks from the Warren County Council of Defense, one for the collection of over 680 pounds of paper and the other for the collection of over 3000 pounds of scrap metal.

Since only 6 girls were active in the campaign, their average has been high among others in the county and their efforts deserve recognition.

This club was organized as the Triumph 4-H Club, Mrs. Rosalind Swanson as their leader. Last year Mrs. Idella Jones took over the leadership and since the majority of the girls live nearer the McGraw school they became known as the McGraw 4-H Club.

Each year their program plans have included a number of activities which have provided recreation for themselves and others in their community. They project have been varied and have included four years of clothing, lunch box, room improvement, foods, and outdoor cookery. These have given the girls a well balanced experience in home-making which will always be of value to them.

Akeley Man in Eyewitness Account of The Rangers' Part In The Recent Invasion

Realizing that D-Day news has been and will be news for some time to come, Lt. Arthur J. McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McDonald, Bradley street, writes from England and encloses from the June 12 addition of the Stars and Stripes an eyewitness account of what at least one Warren county man, S/Sgt. Lester Arthur, of Akeley, experienced during the initial phase of the invasion.

The article, datelined "With the Americans in France, June 9 (Delayed)," is the story of a village and the men who took it. "A detachment of Rangers whose deeds put them right at the top of the class of American fighting men," Listing S/Sgt. Arthur as one of the "men who spiked its guns," the article reads:

The village juts out from Hitler's Atlantic Wall and dominates the coast. Casemated on the point were six German 55mm. guns, capable of keeping transports well out to sea. They had to be knocked out at any cost. The Rangers were given the job.

Prior to D-Day the village took a terrific bombardment from the air. Just hours before the landing ships of the Allied navies came in close and took up where the air forces left off. But it was impossible to tell just how effective the bombardment had been. The Rangers had to make sure.

At H-hour the LCAs touched down and the Rangers scrambled ashore. German machine-gunners and snipers opened up, but the men started scaling the 100-foot cliffs as if this were just another maneuver. The Germans on top rolled hand grenades down the slopes, they tried to cut toggle lines, they threw everything they had at those men coming at them but they didn't stop them. In little groups of twos and threes they scrambled over the top and went to work.

Meanwhile, down on the beaches those who were waiting their turn to go up the cliffs brought ashore all the ammunition and water they could carry.

And when all the Rangers reached the top, those who could set up a command post and found out the cover area. Two of the enemy guns had been blown to bits by bombardment. The other four had been taken away. And missing were the men whose specific task it had been to get the four remaining guns. For two days and two nights and part of the third day those Rangers dug in and held their little triangular area. Sometimes they were pinned down in the point itself with the sea on three sides and the Germans to the front. They were low on water and food. Their ammunition was rationed. Their only weapons were rifles and two mortars. At night they crouched in their foxholes and peered into the night, waiting for the attack they knew was coming.

The Germans left no doubt about their attacks. They gathered themselves in large groups and started with a lot of shouting. When they began their advance they came forward under a streaming curtain of fire. The Rangers waited for them. They retreated slowly, keeping contact and preserving their perimeter. And when Jerry fell back they moved up again.

The Rangers had one potent weapon—the American Navy lying just off shore. Aching to shoot was a destroyer that took targets from the ranger GP. Whenever the Germans tried to concentrate any sizable body of men, the destroyer opened up and chased them away. And as they left their positions the Rangers cut them down with rifle fire.

On the second day, an assault craft came into what the Rangers were now calling "Little Bataan." It brought water and food and what the Rangers wanted most of all—ammunition. It took away those wounded who were too badly injured to fight—men who could still hold a gun refused to be evacuated.

On the morning of the third day the Rangers were ready for a final fight. They had radio contact with American forces coming up on the flank, but the reinforcements were having their troubles, too. There didn't seem to be much chance of their breaking through.

But they did get through and the Germans high-tailed it out of there. And the night after that left, the 16 men who had been sent after those four remaining enemy guns rejoined their mates. They had found the guns, which now were no longer of further use to the Vaterland. This was their story:

The guns had been moved two miles inland. Lt. George Kercher, of Baltimore, Md., followed the fire tracks until he and his patrol saw the pieces getting into position. They drove the Germans away with rifle fire, then dashed in and threw Thermite grenades down the barrels, wrecked the breach blocks and scattered spare parts all over.

Just as the job was completed, the Germans counter-attacked the patrol, which hit a ditch and stayed there for 38 hours without moving. They had only three bars of chocolate between them and very little ammunition. A constant watch was kept to insure that no sleeping man snored and gave their positions away. The Germans had them completely surrounded.

Sheffield T-4 War Armorer On Famed Fort

Friends in both Sheffield and Warren will read with particular interest this special communication received from an Eighth Air Force bomber station in England.

When the Memphis Belle left this field last summer on its homeward mission, Technician 4th Class Edward R. Burgason, 35, son of Mrs. Nels Burgason, 49 Keystone avenue, Sheffield, Pa., was down on the line for the take-off, and thought he had seen the last of the famous Flying Fortress.

Recently, Memphis Belle returned to Sergeant Burgason's heavy bomber base in England in the form of the European premiere of the War Department's technicolor motion picture.

"Just one plane . . . and one crew . . . in one squadron . . . in one group . . . on one wing . . . of one air force . . . out of fifteen United States Army air forces," said the narrator, but to Edward Burgason and hundreds of men in his outfit, now almost two years overseas, it was like greeting an old friend returned. The Memphis Belle had belonged to them.

They are the ground crews, mechanics, technicians, clerks, cooks and medics who stayed at their jobs so more Flying Fortresses could strike out against Hitler.

As one armament man put it, "I loaded many a bomb in that baby!"

That's why Sergeant Burgason and men of his outfit were first in England to see the picture.

The sergeant's job with this pioneer bomber group is armorer, repairing 50-caliber machine guns carried by the Flying Fortress. Prior to entering the Army Air Force, he was employed by the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company. He received his education at Kinzua High School and has two brothers in the service, both here in England.

Murder at CANDLEWOOD

by Gene Frankel Tuntler

Chapter 11

WHEN Justen left, Dirk came over and sat beside her in front of the fire. His dark, close-cut hair gave him a boyish appearance.

"Spring," he asked, "your room is directly above the back parlor? Think hard. Do you remember hearing anything down there the night Elvan was killed?"

"No," she hesitated. "No; I don't think so." Then she remembered the boards creaking outside in the hallway that first night. She told him. "But why did you ask? What happened this afternoon? You were excited when you came in."

Dirk nodded, anxiety straining his face into a tight, old look. "I got acquainted with the grounds today, as much as I could in this weather. When I came away from the bridge, up the path leading toward the north side entrance, I found something that evidently was overlooked by the others."

"What was it?"

Dirk put his hand in his pocket. "It was on the window sill of the northeast window in the back parlor. I was examining all the back windows that overlook the bridge. That's how I found this." He held out his hand and Spring stared at it.

"A button!" she exclaimed. "A pink button. Does that mean—?"

"It could mean that someone was in the back parlor watching Elvan come over the bridge. Remember toward dawn the fog had lifted. A figure on the bridge would be distinguishable from the house."

"But what would Elvan be doing on the bridge that early? Why would anyone be watching him?"

"Someone could have sent for him from Candlewood. Or he may have wanted to be here when you came down that morning. But whoever saw him from the parlor window could have hurried out to meet him on the bridge. Striking a blind man with a rock wouldn't be too difficult."

"But the smile fell off her lips. 'Spring! What on earth . . .'

Jo Winters stood in the doorway, her large blue eyes perfectly round, a look of horror weaving itself into the set of her lips and eyes. 'Spring Manning! What are you burning! What are you doing in here!'

Spring stood up, confused. "Nothing," she said. "I was waiting for Aunt Dru to come back."

Jo came toward the fire, moving steadily to the little pieces of paper still unburned. "You're burning the letters!" she cried. "Well, it won't do you any good. You can't keep them secret. I'll phone the police tomorrow myself. They'll hear about this. You can't get away with it. You can't kill Elvan and not pay for it. I'll make you pay!"

"Jo!"

It was Justen Rowley. He stood in the door, in a maroon dressing gown, his pipe still in his mouth. Dirk towered behind him. They had heard the commotion from their rooms in the south wing. Justen drew Jo back toward her room next to Dru's.

"Stop raising such a devil of a racket," he growled. "Get to bed and get some sleep, or flood or no flood, I'll send for Doc Kirkman! You can't go on like this."

Jo went, crying hysterically. Spring waited for Justen to turn on her, but Aunt Druilla pattered down the hall then and Dirk and Justen started back to their rooms. But before he left Dirk exchanged a significant glance with Spring, indicating her aunt. Apprehension gripped Spring. She watched Druilla, fascinated, staring at the quilted satin housecoat she wore. It was pink. And as she came into her bedroom, Spring saw that the upper breast pocket was trimmed in little rose-shaped buttons—pink buttons. And one, in the middle of the row, was missing.

"Spring, didn't sleep that night. She didn't even go to bed. She sat in the chair by the window, staring out into the rain."

FAMILY SHOE STOREThief Takes
Two Valuable
Instruments

Police are on a hunt for two valuable trumpets which were stolen last night about 10:30 from the vestibule of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club. The instruments were part of the equipment of the VFW band and had been used by their owners at band practice. One was a Keifer trumpet with mouth piece and clips in a black case. This was owned by Leidy Williams and was valued at $125. The other trumpet was a Cleveland in a brown leather case and it was valued by the owner, Elmer Sederburg, of Irving, at $100. As soon as discovered the police were notified and they expect to be able to secure the instruments and make an arrest.

One drunk was draped on the slats at headquarters during the night. He was plucked off the street by officers. Two women in an East Side neighborhood joined in some caustic repartee over a back fence to such a degree that police were called to halt the Elingate that was being scattered over the ambient air of a rare June evening.

A barking dog at 12:15 shattered the sleep of a batch of war workers and the coppers were called; a prowler on South Street was sought and found wanting when the police arrived. At 1:15 an argument at Penn avenue and Water street disturbed the rest of the worthy burghers. Officers put on the siren and the boys moved homeward.

TIMES TOPICS

CLOSE TUESDAY

Announcement was made this morning that all gasoline stations in the city will close all day next Tuesday. The crews will enjoy a holiday and "Buck" Whiteshot stated this morning that none would shoot firecrackers.

CLOSE NEXT WEEK

All Warren Dry Cleaning establishments will close all of next week when the managers and all help will enjoy a vacation. The dry cleaners have been doing a rush business for some time and help that all connected with the business can stand a rest period.

TRAFFIC GROWING

Traffic during the past few days has been mounting over the highways and on trains and buses. The vacation travel seems to be getting in full swing and it is expected to reach a peak during the coming weekend when many will be traveling due to the holiday.

SPORTSMEN EXCITED

A duck waddling around under the old willow trees at the base of the north abutment of the old suspension bridge excited some comment this morning. It was reported that a wild duck was cavorting around and many sportsmen who heard the news hiked over to view the "wild one" at close range. Finally some authority on ducks announced that it was a Pekin that had undoubtedly floated away from a flock.

BEAN HONOR GUEST

Geary Bean, former member of the Warren police force and now in the United States Navy was honor guest at a dinner party held last evening by the police department, State police and the Sheriff's office. The affair was held in the VFW club and a splendid chicken dinner with all of the trimmings was served by the Lewis Delicatessen. Following the dinner a social time was enjoyed and the affair was a happy one. Bean is home at present on leave following 14 months in service which has taken him to many far points of the compass.

IN NAVY HOSPITAL

Mrs. Leola Sperry, 608 Prospect street, and her sister-in-law, Frances Sperry, of Corry, were called to New York yesterday when word was received that the former's husband, S. L. C. Walter George Sperry, is in the U. S. Naval Hospital in Brooklyn with a serious intracranial injury. A message from his wife this morning merely stated "he is holding his own". Naval gunner's mate on a merchant marine supply ship, Sperry is believed to have been returned from overseas, although no details of the accident have been learned.

DEMANDS ARE HEAVY

Demands continue heavy for women and girls in Warren manufacturing plants and the Warren Lamp Company is anxious to secure 100 girls or women as soon as possible. Orders are on the books for more than the present capacity of the plant and the management feels that if women and girls realized the dire need for the lamps in the war effort they would respond in greater numbers. Each day sees additions to the plant employees and more and more are needed. Applications can be made to Mr. Smith at the Central avenue plant.

390 TYPES ARMY CLOTHES

In the North African landings, 390 different types of clothing had to be provided for our men.

Anniversary
of Church Was Celebrated

The 11th anniversary of the founding of the First Evangelical church by Bishop Seybert was observed in two special services on Sunday, sermon topics and music carrying out the general anniversary theme. The choir sang and Anne Brown was heard as soloist.

On Sunday evening the district superintendent, Rev. C. E. Servy, of Franklin, was guest speaker, taking for his topic "The Strategy of the church". At the conclusion of his sermon, trustees of the parish were invited to the chance for a note-burning ceremonial. Participating in this part of the service were O. R. Pang, president; S. E. Cluser, secretary; M. L. Danielson, Floyd Carter and Ray Sly.

The burning of this note represented final payment of the indebtedness against the church and offerings taken during the day were sufficient to cover obligations of the parish to the conference debt fund, so that it is truly free of any indebtedness.

Good sized audiences at both morning and evening services included many friends of the church as well as members.

FIRST CLIPPER FILM
HERE FROM SWEDEN

It is with pride that Scandia Films, Inc., in spite of world conditions, is able to present the latest film out of Sweden, which recently reached this country by Clipper Express mail. "Soliga Solberg" (Sunny Sunberg) will be shown at Columbia theatre on Thursday and Friday.

It is with equal pride that the company announces that the star role in this delightful Swedish comedy is carried by none less than Edvard Persson himself.

The brilliant actor is still the outstanding favorite of Swedish moviegoers both in Sweden and on this side. "Soliga Solberg" is indeed made to order for this unique Swedish film comedian, who has captured the heart of all Sweden. Edvard Persson feels at home in this film, and what is more makes his audience feel at home from the very first moment, he like a hero-tenor sings from the very stage of the Royal Opera House in Stockholm, until he, as a prosperous owner of a small restaurant in the outskirts of the Swedish capital smilingly rings up crown after crown on his large cash register.

It is difficult to picture Edvard Persson as a successful businessman, because of his good heart, which always seems to give away everything he has, of worthy goods just as Edvard gives of his song and music, smiles and charm. Nevertheless he succeeds in his business venture, perhaps because he implies part of his own philosophy to the film. He trusts a cruel world in spite of several setbacks.

It is a happy heartwarming film one always will remember, with Edvard Persson at his best, himself, perhaps a little spoiled, but happy.

WARREN OFFICER
BAPTIZED AT SEA

From a special overseas dispatch it is learned that in a simple but impressive service on the Anzio sector of the Fifth Army front in Italy, First Lt. Richard N. Bedow, husband of Eleanor Bedow, of Youngville, was recently baptized in the waters of the Tyrrhenian Sea by his regimental chaplain, Capt. Harold F. Hayward, of Seattle, Wash. Lt. Bedow is a member of an anti-tank unit. Two enlisted men of his company were also baptized and four enlisted men from the unit witnessed the ritual. According to the chaplain, Lt. Bedow picked a spot rich in history, saying "I believe the early Christians were baptized on this same spot."

Young People Will Enjoy Party On Friday Evening July 14th

So enthusiastic was the response of the young people to the first community youth party held at Beaty school Friday evening under the auspices of the Community PTA Council that another such affair is being planned for Friday evening, July 14. Plans are being worked out and will be announced in the near future.

An attendance of approximately 400 young people was even greater than those in charge had hoped for and popularity of both games room and dancing were evidence of general satisfaction with the program as planned. Over 100 saw action on the two badminton courts, between 35 and 40 were playing shuffleboard and it was necessary to install the second pingpong table to handle a like number of applicants. Each of these games had a long waiting list remaining when 11:30 came and the party was over.

Because of the continued rain it was necessary to switch the dancing indoors and here there were about 300 constantly dancing to the music planned by Mac McCarthy and Nick Geracimos. The latter was at the mike, also, for special announcements and for the floor show which was staged at ten o'clock.

Entertainers were Joan Martin, vocalist; Nancy Geracimos and Martha Ann Grant, dancers, and Bill Clinger, with his feats of magic. Personned of the orchestra group was Bill Dobbs, John Robertson, John Jnapp, Dick Randall and Nick Geracimos.

Decorations were carried out in red, white and blue, with American flags and streamers. Special guests of the young people for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Schuler, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bathurst and Mrs. Frances Kotmair.

Success of the party was largely due to the untiring efforts of the young people who formed most of the committees. On the general committee were Robert Wilder, chairman; Eleanor Peters, Mrs. Walter Mathyer, Homer B. Fleming, Mrs. Olive Archibald Huff and Georgia Spinney, with these groups assisting:

Floor—James Farrell, chairman; Allen Woodruff, Guilio Pino, Jack

Cooney, William Meneo, David Leidig. Music and floor show—John Knapp and Nick Geracimos, co-chairmen. Decorations, Leland Daye, chairman; Virginia Johnson, Jay White, Dorothy Ann Harris, Joan Weller, Georgia Spinney, Marcia Johnson, William Bill, Arlene Speckman, Teresa Pino, Beth Smith, Allen Woodruff, Refreshments—Teresa Pino, chairman; JoAnn Phillips, Arlene Speckman, Allan Schuler, William Fuellhart, William Hill, Tom Hampson. Equipment—Hugh Jamieson, chairman; Jim Richards, Dick Blair, Robert Woodwell. Publicity—Olive A. Huff, chairman; Charles—Guilio Pino, chairman. Games—Walter Mathyer, chairman. Lights—Brown, Bill Meneo, Finance—Mrs. Henry Kolpien.

Special thanks is extended by the sponsors and young people to all who contributed to the evening's success and particular appreciation to the Evert's Hardware, Masonic Temple and the Times-Mirror.

Upon completion of this course he was platoon commander of a self-propelled automatic weapons battery at Camp Edwards, Mass., until February, 1944, when

Store Employees Stage Keen Contest in War Bond Sales

O. A. Pressel, long-time executive of the Metzger-Wright Company, is leading the store's bond selling drive as part of the Fifth War Loan. Others who are high up on the list, in order of their sales, are Mrs. Leota Clark, Mrs. Helen Brookway, Mrs. Bess Stone, Victoria Staaf, and Claude Landers. All the above have sold more than $1,000.00 in bonds.

The quota accepted by Metzger-Wright coworkers at the beginning of the campaign was $500.00 each. The total store quota was set at $50,000.00, $30,000.00 to be sold "over the counter," and $20,000.00 by special solicitation among associates of the company. In addition to the above leaders of the campaign, the following have exceeded their quotas: Mrs. Mildred Carter, Mrs. Bertha Latschaw, Mrs. Pearl Johnson, and Mrs. Clara Dietrich, all of whom have sold between $500.00 and $1,000.00. Those who have sold between $250.00 and $500.00 and who are expected to exceed their quota within the next few days are: Harriet Chat-

levy, Alan Aquist, Clara Weldert, Mrs. Madeline Lyons, and Ruth Woodin. Forty-eight of the store's sixty-five employees have sold bonds since the beginning of the campaign.

A special feature of the Metzger-Wright Company is an arrangement with the Treasury Department and the Texton Company, makers of parachutes and army tents, whereby each customer who buys a bond may autograph a sticker. These stickers are sent to army ordnance depots where they are pasted on actual bombs to be delivered to the wartheaters. A customer may choose whether he wishes to have his bomb showered upon Hitler or upon Tokyo.

A $25.00 bond buys a fragmentation bomb, a $50.00 bond buys a 100-pound all-purpose bomb, a $100.00 bond buys a 500 pound all-purpose bomb, a $500.00 bond buys a 2,000 pound all-purpose bomb, a $1,000.00 bond buys a 4,000 pound blockbuster. A special sticker may be autographed for each bond purchased.

Congressional Medal of Honor Awarded Local Marine

Mrs. Frieda Thompson, 60 Pennsylvania avenue, east, has been informed that her son, Donald, a sergeant in the United States Marine Corps, has been honored with the highest and most rare award given to a soldier, the Congressional Medal of Honor, for gallantry at the risk of his life and above and beyond the call of duty.

Young Thompson, a veteran of both the Guadalcanal and Bougainville campaigns, has been overseas for 18 months. He has been in service for the past three years, one year of which was spent at the Jacksonville, Fla., air base.

Readers will recall a photograph appearing in the May 3 issue of the Times-Mirror, in which Sgt. Thompson was pictured with a group of buddies and the Japanese trophy they captured on Bougainville, the same action in which Mac Corah, of Warren, was injured.

Penn Electric Directors In Meeting Here

Highlight of the meeting of the Board of Directors of Pennsylvania Electric Company held in Warren today was the announcement of Penelec's adoption of a new policy effecting line extensions, according to J. P. Fenstermacher, local manager.

"The change in policy, as set forth in the Company's general tariff of rates, rules and regulations, provides that as of August 15, 1944, the basis for monthly minimum charges is reduced from 1½% of construction cost (1½% on extensions in service 7 years) to $12.00 per mile, with provision for waiver in the instance of more than 9 customers per mile or in any event when an extension has been in service five years the regular schedule minimum will apply. Heretofore, in the Warren area the guarantee was waived to $2.00 level when the total revenue in two consecutive years equalled or exceeded two-thirds of the total extension cost. A separate rule is provided under which other extensions may be constructed either with customer assisting in the financing or at rate of 2% of the construction cost. The rate has been 2½% on polyphase extensions."

Out-of-town members of Penelec present at today's meeting included: President P. H. Harris; W. C. Sontum, vice president; R. E. Pruner, secretary; P. R. Lawson, treasurer; C. H. Edmund, comptroller; M. J. McCleary, Frank W. Womer and Harry Zienne, all of Johnstown; D. W. Jardine, vice president, and O. H. Marshall of Erie; B. M. Kirsch, vice president, of Bradford; A. F. Tegen New York City, and R. A. Gallagher, vice president, of Oil City.

Gordon Had Part in Putting Army in France

It is learned today in a special overseas dispatch that S/Sgt. Lawrence E. Gordon, son of Mrs. R. M. Gordon, 1322 Pennsylvania avenue, west, is now with the Ninth Air Force troop carrier squadron. The Ninth Troop Carrier Command, newest of troop carrier organizations, is commanded by Brig. Gen. Paul L. Williams,

The women they'll never forget!

THIS WAS A RED-LETTER DAY for Jim—the soldier who had lost the use of his leg at Salerno. For this day he walked—strictly alone—for the first time in months. To Jim, it was a miracle. To the Wac who had coached him so long and so patiently, he said, "Sister, if I live to be a million, I'll always remember you for this."

THIS IS A WORLD WAR. The most terrible of all recorded events in human history.

And this is what the Wacs—the women soldiers of our Army—are doing about it:

Working in critical hospital jobs. Helping to restore the broken bodies and spirits of fighting men.

Working as lip-readers. Helping blind men to see again through knowledge of Braille. Working as laboratory technicians. As pharmacists. As psychiatric assistants. As ambulance drivers.

■ We'll gladly send you information about joining the Women's Army Corps. Simply mail the coupon below. Lt. Elizabeth Clarke Dairo will be in Warren Wednesday, July 5th, at the Y. W. C. A.

Working in control towers. Making strategy maps for invasion.

Manning the giant switchboards that send combat orders winging to tensely waiting bomber crews.

Working night and day at vital jobs. Jobs that will speed the day of liberation—and give us peace again.

These are the women "they'll never forget"...

Gallantly, a new page is being written into American history by the women of the Women's Army Corps.

THE WAR TODAY

(By J. M. Roberts Jr., Associated Press War Analyst, substituting for DeWitt MacKenzie)

Capture of Cherbourg comes about as expected, after the Germans did everything possible to delay the massing of Allied strength for a break-out from the beachhead.

In Russia, too, things develop as expected, and with tremendous speed.

While envelopment of the Baltics may be expected as part of the offensive, today's development also point to the possibility of a favorite Soviet play. While one army heads toward the Lithuania and Latvia by way of Polotsk, three others drive toward Minsk toward Orsha, Mogilev and Bobruisk.

This may be a masterful-conceived campaign with two objectives: To get into position for the Baltic clean-up and yet, without going out of the way, to provide a northern anvil against which a drive from the Gomel-Kowel area could crush all the Germans remaining in the pocket southeast of Minsk.

A new Russian map of the front shows the Red army considerably farther north and west toward Brest-Litovsk than was announced last spring. The line runs from a point slightly northwest of Kowel, about 150 miles east and slightly south of Warsaw, back to the Dnepr near Gomel, and then almost north to the new Mogilev-Vitebsk bulge. As this bulge develops it will help from one of the great pockets in which the Russians love so well to catch the Nazis.

There are other reasons for believing the offensive will gradually be taken up by Red armies to the south of Zhitobin, as, on a great scale, it already has developed southward from Finland.

As the Minsk area is enveloped, the great farthest-west salient at Kowel may be pushed on to Brest-Litovsk while the great armies east of Lwow and Iasi take up the fight.

JUDGE TALKS BACK

(Meadville Tribune-Republican)

Judge O. Clare Kent, presiding at a juvenile court session here, served notice that the Crawford County courts will back up the police and district attorney's office in an attempt to get at the root of juvenile delinquency—the parents.

The jurist, in remarks from the bench, said that "the parents are the ones who will be punished" as he lashed at mothers and fathers who "spend their days filling up with liquor while their children run wild and get into serious trouble." Judge Kent then demonstrated he meant business by directing an investigation of a mother, sitting in the courtroom, whose three young children were alleged to be neglected.

It's obvious, we feel, that the foundation for juvenile delinquency is laid in the home. An awareness on the part of negligent mothers and fathers that they will be held accountable for the actions of their children should cut down appreciably the juvenile court docket.

MILK DOWN DRAINS

The Christian Science Monitor, which is no calamity howler, complains that in and around Boston milk is being poured down drains, because of government regulations, while eager consumers are short on milk, cream and ice cream.

The Monitor says that the government order, limiting milk dealers from selling more than a prescribed percentage of the June, 1943, sales, leaves them with a surplus now that green pasturage has increased production.

They can't legally sell the surplus. They could give it away, but that would involve unbearable outlays for pasteurization, bottling and distribution. So they have to throw it away.

The creation of planned economies, on paper, looks easy. Their administration can be pretty difficult.

Many a Warren youngster who sneaks off to the sunny river and creek doesn't get tanned until he gets home.

Get your front teeth tightened up now! Corn-on-the-cob season in Warren county is just around the corner.

Stamp News

IRELAND, which late last year honored Sir William Rowan Hamilton, famed native mathematician, with two stamps bearing his portrait, will pay tribute to another Irish educator this month by issuing two stamps to mark the tercentenary of the death of the Franciscan lay-brother Michael O'Clery, regarded as Ireland's greatest historian. The stamps, to be issued June 30, will be in ½ pence and one shilling denominations and will be designed by R. J. King, Irish artist.

Born in what is now County Donegal, Brother O'Clery entered the college of the exiled Irish Franciscans at Louvain, Belgium, in 1623 and was sent to Ireland to copy or obtain manuscripts to be used in compiling a history of the country. His most famous work is "Annals of the Kingdom of Ireland," generally known as the "Annals of the Four Masters," a complete history of Ireland which he compiled with the aid of three collaborators. He was buried in an unmarked, unknown grave in the cloister of the convent at the University of Louvain.

FROM Brazil comes two new commemoratives, including the one cruzeiro blue which pictures a statue erected in 1943 of the Baron of Rio Branco. The Baron, Jose Maria de Silva Paranhos was a statesman, diplomat and newspaper editor whose death occurred in 1912. The second stamp is a 120-cruzeiro green and light orange which pictures Luis Alves de Lima e Silva, Duke of Caxias, and is inscribed "Pacifica do Movimento de 1842." The stamp thus marks the 100th anniversary of the duke's pacification of the districts of Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes.

URUGUAY has issued belatedly three stamps marking the 75th anniversary of the founding of her Swiss colony of Nueva Helvecia in 1873. A change in postal rates after the stamps were printed necessitated surcharging the original stamps with new values and the date "1944."

of "La Belle France," symbol of the republic, and are flanked by strips of laurel leaves. The stamps significantly are inscribed "Republique Francaise," a wording which long ago was dropped by the Vichy French government. Values received thus far are 50-centimes red, 1.20 francs cerise, 1.50-f blue and 3-f purple.

THE Post Office Department has announced tentative approval of a commemorative to be issued next year to mark the 100th anniversary of Florida's entry into the Union. A similar commemorative marking the 100th anniversary of Texas statehood will be sought by the Dallas Stamp Collectors Club, according to Paul S. Hedrick, stamp editor of the Tulsa, Okla., Daily World. Texas was admitted to statehood December 29, 1845 and the centennial of its independence was marked with a three-cent commemorative in 1935.

FOUR Russian stamps honoring defenders of Stalingrad, Leningrad, Sevastopol and Odessa have reached this country. All 30 kopek values, each stamp portrays the medal given defenders of each city. The Stalingrad stamp in addition pictures soldiers of the Red Army and a map of the Stalingrad area. An inscription, according to J. and H. Stolov, New York wholesalers, reads "Liquidation German Fascist Army Around Stalingrad." The harbor of Sevastopol and Lenin's monument appear on the Sevastopol commemorative, the entrance of the harbor of Leningrad is pictured on the stamp honoring that city and the Odessa commemorative portrays the stairs on which the rebels of the cruiser "Potemkin" were defeated in 1905.

MANY WELLS DRILLING

Compensation Referee Jesse G. The work is giving employment to many oil field workers and in addition to the wells the company is bringing new compressor plants, power houses and expending a huge sum of money.

Margaret Lindquist And Harold Arthur Wed on Saturday

The Akeley Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful ceremony Saturday afternoon when Margaret E. Lindquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton E. Lindquist, of Akeley, became the bride of Harold C. Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde J. Arthur, of the same place.

Rev. Philip Schick performed the ceremony for which Mrs. Willard Munson, of Pinehurst, N. C., played traditional music. Mrs. Edward Miller, of Akeley, sang "O Perfect Love" and "Because" during the ceremony.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her fingertip veil was held with orange blossoms and she carried white roses and forget-me-nots.

Mrs. C. E. Lindquist, of Warren, O., as matron of honor, wore figured aqua taffeta with yellow hat and gloves and carried a nosegay bouquet of gladioli, white carnations and yellow roses.

Harold Bloomgren, of Akeley, sister of the bridegroom and second attendant, wore a similar outfit of figured pink organza with matching accessories and a nosegay of pink roses and white carnations.

Robert Arthur, of Akeley, was his brother's best man and ushers were C. E. Lindquist, of Warren, O., and Clyde Arthur, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y.

Mothers of the young people were both in aqua with white accessories and corsages of yellow roses.

A reception followed immediately in the church parlors with the following assisting: Alice Lindell and Mrs. Robert Haley, Russell, Bernice Lindmark, Warren; Helen Randall, Elsie Lundmark and Mrs. Wilbur Haddon, Jamestown, N. Y. Guests were from Erie, Youngsville, Pleasantville, Warren, North Warren, Russell, Pinehurst, N. C.; Buffalo, Jamestown and Falconer, N. Y.; Alabama; Cleveland and Warren, O.; Chicago, Ill.

For a short wedding trip, Mrs. Arthur chose an aqua suit with matching turban and corsage of pink roses. The newlyweds are to make their home at 427 East Fifth street, Jamestown. The bride has been a member of the Russell school faculty and has been honored with a number of lovely parties. Mr. Arthur is employed by the Marlin-Rockwell Corporation.

IF WHAT you did for the war effort today was an easy thing to do, it isn't enough. We can not hope to give as much as the boy who gives his life... but we can do our utmost!

For instance, if you have not yet found yourself scheming and figuring on a way to buy extra War Bonds, it's a pretty good sign you aren't buying enough!

When your neighbor calls on you during the 5th War Loan to ask if you'll increase your purchases, say "Yes"... even if it takes a lot of scheming and figuring afterward to pay for them.

That's the way our men are doing their part... in the Pacific, in Italy, in England. Ordered to attack, they do not first consult themselves to determine whether it's safe or convenient or comfortable. They're thinking of you at home. To protect you, they attack first... and figure out how to do it as they go.

Uncle Sam needs your dollars to finance this war and he needs them

now! Not just the dollars you can spare but every dollar you can earn that you don't absolutely need for food, shelter, clothing and the operation of the farm.

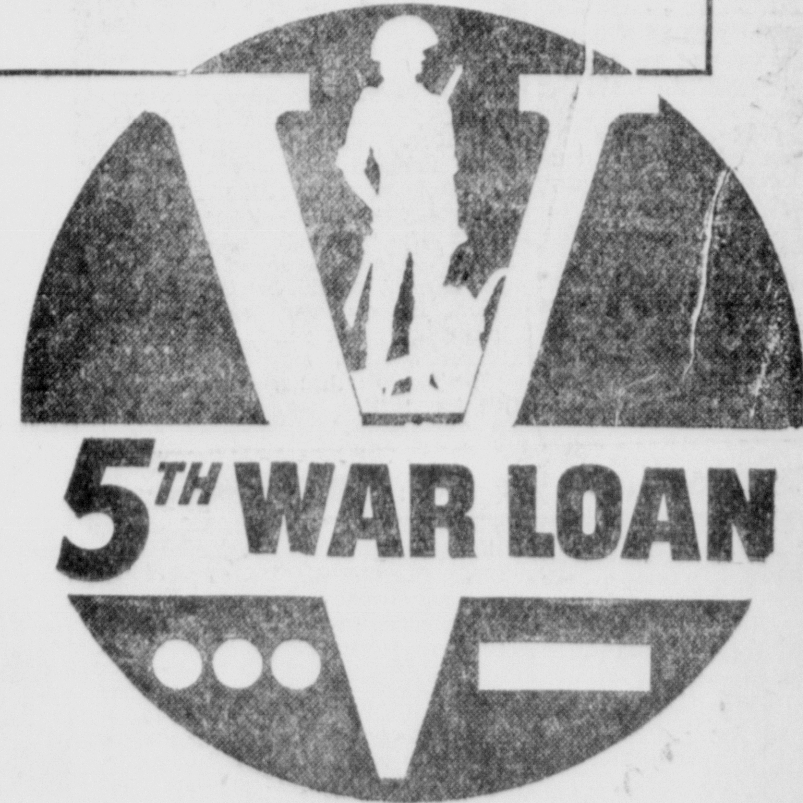

War Bonds savings mean more to the average farmer or rancher than to almost anyone else. For they form a financial reserve indispensable for the profitable and efficient operation of his business. War Bonds are safe, they pay a good return, they're easy to buy. When they mature, they mean new machinery and equipment, new conveniences for the house, money for the children's schooling, funds for retirement.

The next time you pick up your paper or listen to the radio news, have a conference with yourself. "Am I doing as much as I can to help win this war? Am I matching what I can do with what the boys are doing over there? Am I investing every possible dollar in War Bonds today to make my future and my family's future more secure?"

Most of us haven't yet begun to do our best. Uncle Sam needs it now! BUY MORE THAN BEFORE in the 5th War Loan!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED... NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy... from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

Browns Must Overcome Yank Jinx If They're Going to Win

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It's the St. Louis Browns on the first ballot in the nation's popularity convention but Luke Sewell's men still have to prove they can whip the "Yankee jinx" if they're going to win their first American League pennant.

Four games out in front of second place Chicago and four and a half ahead of Joe McCarthy's New Yorkers and Boston, virtually tied for third, the Browns head east for the second time with the shadow of the Yankee Stadium darkening their horizon. They open their eastern trip tomorrow against the world champion but twice in seven starts. Last year it was five of 22 and way back in 1922 when the club was making its last serious bid for a flag the same "Yankee jinx" cost them their chance to the tune of 14 defeats in 22 crucial struggles.

Seventeen more games remain to be played between the Browns and Yankees and the St. Louis club must step up the pace against New York to hold the top rung Chicago, Detroit and Boston have done much better against the champs although Detroit has been a pushover for St. Louis 11 games to 3.

Both leagues enjoyed a second straight open date today, but resume action tomorrow with a full start that brings the American's western teams into the eastern parks and the national's eastern clubs into the west.

DISCOVERY
The explosion that blew 20 cubic miles of volcanic ash from Mt. Mazama, and produced Oregon's Crater Lake, occurred less than 4000 years ago. In caves nearby, scientists discovered Indian sandals blackened by the explosion, and the sandals were from periods less than 40 centuries past.

CANADA TO UP WHEAT OUTPUT
Canadian farmers will plant almost 4,000,000 more acres of wheat in 1944 than last year.

His timing off, and the flashing speed that carried him to a world welterweight title, missing the cagey veteran of 179 professional bouts in 13 years said last night he was through, "for sure this time."

Zivic, a 2-1 underdog in the betting, surprised the crowd of about 12,000 who paid $32,798.23 to see the bout. He out-manuevered his 20-year-old foe most of the way, avoided Bell's lethal right that had scored 28 knockouts in 35 fights, and in general complicated the picture sufficiently so that officials agreed on but four of the ten rounds.

But toward the end, when the legs that carried him to 150 victories began to weaken, Zivic slowed down and the comfortable margin he had piled up in the early rounds faded as Bell consistently drove home the attack and kept Zivic on the defensive.

Walker and Tucker Still Lead Hitters

New York, June 27.—(P)—Dixie Walker of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Thurman Tucker of the Chicago White Sox still held the fort today as the top hitters in the major leagues but Walker's margin had shrunk to three points over Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Tucker had a distant threat in a new direction from Oris Hockett of Cleveland.

Hockett rocketed from fifth place into the American League runnerup spot on a 16-point rise that boosted his mark to .340 or 29 points back of Tucker's .389. Bobby Doerr and Pete Fox of the Boston Red Sox are tied for third at .325 with Chuck Hostetler of Detroit dropping from second to fifth at .319. Figures include games of June 26.

Musial moved up on Walker because the Brooklyn favorite dropped nine points despite his week's work of nine blows in 29 at bats to boost his season hit total to 95. Phil Weintraub of the New York Giants held third with .335, one point better than Augie Galan of Brooklyn. Joe Medwick of the Giants rounded out the top five at .321.

MESS "TOOLS" FROM SCRAP
A substantial part of the Army's metal mess equipment, including cups, knives, forks, spoons, and trays is being obtained from stainless steel scrap left over from manufacture of other articles and from "off heat" or rejected, ingots.

One suggested postwar use of the helicopter is to carry girders and beams to high buildings and bridges during construction, eliminating use of derricks, elevators, and cranes.

Yale Gridders Train Without Using Football

By LOU BLACK

New Haven, Conn., June 27.—(P)—An experiment which saw a big-league gridiron squad go right through spring training without a football anywhere in sight has been concluded at Yale and Coach Howie Odell expressed delight today over results.

The boys sure look fit and tough and it looks like we've got something here," smiled Odell as he surveyed his huskies (24 of 32 line candidates are over six feet tall and the majority weigh more than 180 pounds).

Yale's potential '44 team has done its stuff in the Eli gym—the temple of sweat—under Bob Kipphuth, Bulldog's well known swimmer coach. The workouts have consisted of grueling calisthenics with stress of development of muscles for agility, strength and endurance.

Conspicuously absent was the usual kicking, passing and tossing of footballs.

Zivic is Ready Mark Finish to Ring Career

Pittsburgh, June 27.—(P)—Pvt. Fritz Zivic, the air corps' pugilist, who came home on furlough with ring dust in his eyes, today was ready to turn the boxing business over to the youngsters after dropping a ten-round split decision to Tommy Bell, hard-punching welterweight from Youngstown, O.

His timing off, and the flashing speed that carried him to a world welterweight title, missing the cagey veteran of 179 professional bouts in 13 years said last night he was through, "for sure this time."

Zivic, a 2-1 underdog in the betting, surprised the crowd of about 12,000 who paid $32,798.23 to see the bout. Akeley Man in Eyewitness Account of The Rangers' Part In The Recent Invasion

Realizing that D-Day news has been and will be news for some time to come, Lt. Arthur J. McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McDonald, Bradley street, writes from England and encloses from the June 12 addition of the Stars and Stripes an eyewitness account of what at least one Warren county man, S/Sgt. Lester Arthur, of Akeley, experienced during the initial phase of the invasion.

The article, dated June 9 (Delayed), is the story of a village and the men who took it. "A detachment of Rangers whose deeds put them right at the top of the class of American fighting men," Listing S/Sgt. Arthur as one of the "men who spiked its guns," the article reads:

The village juts out from Hitler's Atlantic Wall and dominates the coast. Casemated on the point were six German 55mm. guns, capable of keeping transports well out to sea. They had to be knocked out at any cost. The Rangers were given the job.

Prior to D-Day the village took a terrific bombardment from the air. Just hours before the landing ships of the Allied navies came in close and took up where the air forces left off. But it was impossible to tell just how effective the bombardment had been. The Rangers had to make sure.

At H-hour the LCAs touched down and the Rangers scrambled ashore. German machine-guns and snipers opened up, but the men started scaling the 100-foot cliffs as if this were just another maneuver. The Germans on top rolled hand grenades down the slopes, they tried to cut toggle lines, they threw everything they had at those men coming at them but they didn't stop them. In little groups of twos and threes they scrambled over the top and went to work.

Meanwhile, down on the beaches those who were waiting their turn to go up the cliffs brought ashore all the ammunition and water they could carry.

And when all the Rangers reached the top, those who could set up a command post and found out the cover area. Two of the enemy guns had been blown to bits by bombardment. The other four had been taken away. And missing were the men whose specific task it had been to get the four remaining guns. For two days and two nights and part of the third day those Rangers dug in and held their little triangular area. Sometimes they were pinned down in the point itself with the sea on three sides and the Germans to the front. They were low on water and food. Their ammunition was rationed. Their only weapons were rifles and two mortars. At night they crouched in their foxholes and peered into the night, waiting for the attack they knew was coming.

The Germans left no doubt about their attacks. They gathered themselves in large groups and started with a lot of shouting. When they began their advance they came forward under a streaming curtain of fire. The Rangers waited for them. They retreated slowly, keeping contact and preserving their perimeter. And when Jerry fell back they moved up again.

The Rangers had one potent weapon—the American Navy lying just off shore. Aching to shoot

was a destroyer that took targets from the ranger GP. Whenever the Germans tried to concentrate any sizable body of men, the destroyer opened up and chased them away. And as they left their positions the Rangers cut them down with rifle fire.

On the second day, an assault craft came into what the Rangers were now calling "Little Bataan." It brought water and food and what the Rangers wanted most of all—ammunition. It took away those wounded who were too badly injured to fight—men who could still hold a gun refused to be evacuated.

On the morning of the third day the Rangers were ready for a finish fight. They had radio contact with American forces coming up on the flank, but the reinforcements were having their troubles, too. There didn't seem to be much chance of their breaking through.

But they did get through and the Germans high-tailed it out of there. And the night after they left, the 16 men who had been sent after those four remaining enemy guns rejoined their mates. They had found the guns, which now were no longer of further use to the Vaterland. This was their story:

The guns had been moved two miles inland. Lt. George Kercher, of Baltimore, Md., followed the fire tracks until he and his patrol saw the pieces getting into position. They drove the Germans away with rifle fire, then dashed in and threw Thermite grenades down the barrels, wrecked the breach blocks and scattered spare parts all over.

Just as the job was completed, the Germans counter-attacked the patrol, which hit a ditch and stayed there for 58 hours without moving. They had only three bars of chocolate between them and very little ammunition. A constant watch was kept to insure that no sleeping man snored, and gave their positions away. The Germans had them completely surrounded.

Sheffield T-4 War Armorer On Famed Fort

Friends in both Sheffield and Warren will read with particular interest this special communication received from an Eighth Air Force bomber station in England: When the Memphis Belle left this field last summer on its homeward mission, Technician 4th Class Edward R. Burgason, 35, son of Mrs. Nels Burgason, 49 Key-stone avenue, Sheffield, Pa., was down on the line for the take-off, and thought he had seen the last of the famous Flying Fortress.

Recently, Memphis Belle returned to Sergeant Burgason's heavy bomber base in England in the form of the European premiere of the War Department's technicolor motion picture.

"Just one plane . . . and one crew . . . in one squadron . . . in one group . . . on one wing . . . of one air force . . . out of fifteen United States Army air forces," said the narrator, but to Edward Burgason and hundreds of men in his outfit, now almost two years overseas, it was like greeting an old friend returned. The Memphis Belle had belonged to them.

They are the ground crews, mechanics, technicians, clerks, cooks and medics who stayed at their jobs so more Flying Fortresses could strike out against Hitler.

As one armament man put it, "I loaded many a bomb in that baby!"

That's why Sergeant Burgason and men of his outfit were first in England to see the picture.

The sergeant's job with this pioneer bomber group is armor, repairing 50-calibre machine guns carried by the Flying Fortress. Prior to entering the Army Air Force, he was employed by the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company. He received his education at Kinzua High School and has two brothers in the service, both here in England.

Murder at CANDLEWOOD

WHEN Justen left, Dirk came over and sat beside her in front of the fire. His dark, close-cut hair gave him a boyish appearance.

"Spring," he asked, "your room is directly above the back parlor? Think hard. Do you remember hearing anything down there the night Elvan was killed?"

"No," she hesitated. "No, I don't think so." Then she remembered the boards creaking outside in the hallway that first night. She told him. "But why did you ask? What happened this afternoon? You were excited when you came in."

Dirk nodded, anxiety straining his face into a tight, old look. "I got acquainted with the grounds today, as much as I could in this weather. When I came away from the bridge, up the path leading toward the north side entrance, I found something that evidently was overlooked by the others."

"What was it?"

Dirk put his hand in his pocket. "It was on the window sill of the northeast window in the back parlor. I was examining all the back windows that overlook the bridge. That's how I found this." He held out his hand and Spring stared at it.

"A button!" she exclaimed. "A pink button. Does that mean—?"

"It could mean that someone was in the back parlor watching Elvan come over the bridge. Remember, toward dawn the fog had lifted. A figure on the bridge would be distinguishable from the house."

"But what would Elvan be doing on the bridge that early? Why would anyone be watching him?"

"Someone could have sent for him from Candlewood. Or he may have wanted to be here when you came down that morning. But whoever saw him from the parlor window could have hurried out to meet him on the bridge. Striking a blind man with a rock wouldn't be too difficult—"

"Oh." The word came faintly. Spring was remembering something. She went a little sick at the thought.

"What is it?" Dirk demanded.

"Oh, Dirk! Aunt Dru couldn't have done it!" It was more a plea for reassurance than a statement of faith. Gradually, she told him the strange talk she had had with Great Aunt Adelaide warning her that Drusilla was "queer."

And finally, she repeated the sentence Drusilla had flung at her this afternoon when they had talked about the letters. "This would never have happened if you had not come!" Spring shuddered. "Dirk, she didn't—she couldn't have done this—for me!"

But Dirk's eyes were not reassuring at all. He only said, "Get those letters!"

She tried once more that night to get possession of them. Aunt Drusilla's light wavered under the crack of the door and Spring knocked, very softly. There was no answer. But the door, surprisingly, was unlocked. She went in quietly.

"Aunt Dru," she said. But the room was empty. She must have gone down the hall to the bathroom. Spring sat down on the vanity bench and waited.

A fire smoldered in the small fireplace across the room. Spring, gazing aimlessly into the faltering embers, suddenly stared. She crossed the room quickly. A half charred fragment of paper flickered, leaving a black crescent against the unburned white portion. She picked it out very carefully and held it to the candlelight on the vanity. It was one of her letters! Aunt Dru was burning them in the fireplace. She stooped over the grate again, poking the remaining bits of paper into the licking flames. There were still some unburned fragments. She stirred the ashes, blowing them gently. The papers ignited, and the edges began to curl under the yellow tongue of fire. The door swung open. Spring turned, smiling at her Aunt Dru.

But the smile fell off her lips. "Spring! What on earth . . ."

Jo Winters stood in the doorway, her large blue eyes perfectly round, a look of horror weaving itself into the set of her lips and eyes. "Spring Manning! What are you burning! What are you doing in here?"

Spring stood up, confused. "Nothing," she said. "I was waiting for Aunt Dru to come back."

Jo came toward the fire, moving steadily to the little pieces of paper still unburned. "You're burning the letters!" she cried. "Well, it won't do you any good. You can't keep them secret. I'll phone the police tomorrow myself. They'll hear about this. You can't get away with it. You can't kill Elvan and not pay for it. I'll make you pay!"

"Jo!"

It was Justen Rowley. He stood in the door, in a maroon dressing gown, his pipe still in his mouth. Dirk towered behind him. They had heard the commotion from their rooms in the south wing. Justen drew Jo back toward her room next to Dru's.

"Stop raising such a devil of a racket," he growled. "Get to bed and get some sleep, or flood or no flood, I'll send for Doc Kirkman! You can't go on like this."

Jo went crying hysterically. Spring waited for Justen to turn on her, but Aunt Drusilla pattered down the hall then and Dirk and Justen started back to their rooms. But before he left Dirk exchanged a significant glance with Spring, indicating her Aunt. Apprehension gripped Spring. She watched Drusilla, fascinated, staring at the quilted satin housecoat she wore. It was pink. And as she came into her bedroom, Spring saw that the upper breast pocket was trimmed in little rose-shaped buttons—pink buttons. And one, in the middle of the row, was missing. . . .

Spring didn't sleep that night. She didn't even go to bed. She sat in the chair by the window, staring out into the rain.
